Rwanda

Many of us will remember Rwanda because of the ethnic genocide that took place some 20 years ago. Today it is a nation being restored and healed. There is tribal unity, political stability and a promising future.

Today it is rebuilding it's economy with coffee and tea production among it's main exports.

Tourism is also a key contributor to the economy with safari's through bamboo forests in the shadow of the Virunga Volcanoes tracking rare mountain gorilla's.

The new generation of young people are rising up to receive a better education and to invest in the rebuilding work.
